

One-Minute Hour. Explosive Expertise.

Preparing sophisticated sales representatives has never been more vital to your product's brand image and company's health. The stress of high-value interactions with prescribers requires sales representatives that can deliver detailing that is consistent, compliant, and converting. Such tall learning hurdles as expertise in medical science, regulatory compliance and prescriber behaviors put your brand's adoption and sales at risk. Your sales force could use a one-minute hour.

Expertise On Demand.

InVisM's RealityV™ Training combines the emotional provocation of a Hollywood movie, the personalized interactivity of digital gaming and the applied science of adult learning into an immersive experience that transfers expertise unlike any other platform. InVisM weaves these elements together with your unique product needs and best practices to create a powerfully interactive plot transforming your sales training program into a field expertise initiative.

Socializing Is Good. Expertise Is Better.

InVisM's field-proven methodology facilitates learning for complex, dynamic environments and results in retained expertise. Have confidence that corporate intelligence is consistently applied by communicating the right skills and behaviors from a secure proprietary deployment. Cap regulatory risk and accelerate brand adoption by catalyzing a common understanding between management, field reps and prescribers.

Expertise Delivers.

InVisM's RealityV™ advances marginal competencies to differentiating expertise. Only InVisM can deliver field-proven, field-accessible training for your sales representatives. Fortunately for our industry, this adaptive training has arrived just in time. Start RealityV™ Training today.

